Some Thoughts on TV Drama

—from an actor, an actress,
a producer, and a critic

IT HAS BEEN SAID that the stage is an actor's medium, that TV — by giving control of the complex technical apparatus to the director—has become a director's medium.

"Sometimes it makes you mad," says stage and TV actress Corinne Conley with wry honesty, "when you see a brilliant TV director get a fine performance from someone with no acting experience at all."

We interviewed Barry Morse, an actor well established on both stage and TV, on the set of Heaven Can Wait. As we arrived he was doing a scene where he finished a telephone conversation, put the phone on the dresser near the bed, walked across to the table from where he took a gun, and began to move back to the phone.

"I'm losing you off camera," said TV producer Norman Campbell on the intercom. "You better put the gun in the drawer of the dresser then you won't need to move at all."

Later Morse used this to illustrate a point. "On stage the director must use such opportunities to create movement; but on TV, with the limited scope of the camera at any one time, camera movement must often replace actors' movement." But not always—

"In a long shot, the actor might have to exaggerate his action even more than on stage," Morse says. "The challenge in TV acting is not so much in scaling down as in the constant change in scale corresponding to the movement of the cameras."

"I used to go along with the view that TV needed introspective, naturalistic acting," says Miss Conley. "As I'm not by nature introverted I often got a sore face through trying not to be too expressive on TV. Now I'm not so sure. I'm beginning to suspect that under certain conditions larger gestures can be used on TV."

BARRY MORSE—his director kept him in bed to avoid movement.
(Scene from "Heaven Can Wait," December 2 on The Unforeseen).

Are the fundamentals of TV and stage acting the same?

"The differences are not as great as many actors think," says Barry Morse.

"The differences are much greater than is often claimed," says Miss Conley.

Says producer Campbell: "Certainly the TV actor must learn special techniques. He should know how to move so that perspective remains correct for the camera. For instance if he's walking toward, and then from away the camera he should know to slow down for the close-up, then speed up again as he moves away."

"TV has taken the place of stock companies as training grounds for young actors," says drama critic Nathan Cohen. "They pick up some good things, some bad. They don't learn how to project, for instance, or how to move in large areas. And I suspect they tend to substitute mechanical tricks for characterization. On stage, an actor must develop a full characterization and sustain it for a long period."

How important is a live audience to an actor?"

"The stimulation of a live audience is as useful as cocaine," says

Morse. "A good actor should be able to act alone in a barnyard."

Miss Conley said: "A camera, with a million people looking through it, has its own stimulation."

"A periodic performance before a live audience is important, though," says Morse, "in order to learn and test acting techniques. How do you know how effective your work is without seeing whether it makes people laugh or cry?"

The so-called "keyhole" or kitchen sink" type drama tells of ordinary people in every day situations. It has been said that TV can effectively handle only such keyhole dramas, not the larger themes of, say, classical theatre; that TV can successfully portray only a Marty, never a Macbeth.

Said Cohen, TV drama is limited by its nature to keyhole drama—and thrillers.

Said Morse: If TV has been most successful with keyhole dramas, this is because of the small size of the TV screen. Larger screens will allow actors to make larger gestures with a consequent broadening of acting style, as on film.

Campbell agreed: Providing certain technical difficulties can be overcome, like the elimination

LATE NOTES AND CORRECTIONS

WEEK OF DECEMBER 6-12

Because each issue of the CBC Times must be mailed so far in advance of the program week covered in it, some changes in scheduling and in program content are inevitable. These are noted below.

SUNDAY, DECEMBER 6

TELEVISION

Ed Sullivan Show

Guests are Canadian comedians Wayne and Shuster, singer Teresa Brewer, comedian Jack Carter, violinist Yehudi Menuhin and pianist Hepzibah Menuhin, the Coronados (a singing trio), the roller-skating Willers, Atilina Segura (European novelty act), and the college football coach of the year.

CBWT—Fighting Words

Panelists this week are J. B. McGeachy, associate editor of the Financial Post; Charlotte Whitton, ex-mayor of Ottawa and columnist with the Ottawa Citizen; Arthur Dawes, a retired B.C. lawyer who was one of the first winners of the Irish Sweepstakes ($419,000 in 1930), and Rev. Ralph Clark, minister of Hamiota (Manitoba) United Church who recently changed jobs for a week with Winnipeg Tribune sports writer Jack Matheson. (This program was seen Nov. 29 on other station.)

RADIO

CBC Talent Festival

Competitive series for young Canadian singers and instrumentalists of professional calibre. Sir Ernest MacMillan conducts the orchestra. This week's contestants are Sylvia Saurette, dramatic soprano from St. Boniface, Man., and Josette Clément, contralto. Today's is the first of four programs from Montreal.

A Murmuration of Starlings

By Kerry Wood, naturalist, author, and broadcaster, of Red Deer, Alberta

(Originally broadcast on "Points West")

A few weeks ago a Vee'd formation of Canada geese flew over our garden, and son Greg referred to them as a fine flock. Just as an item of interest, I told Greg that the proper term for a group of geese was a gaggle. The word has a fine sound; you can almost hear geese honking softly together in a conversational way.

But it turned out to be misleading information; next day I came across a carefully hoarded list of names for birds and animals when they are in plural numbers. And while gaggle is the correct word for geese when they are on water or land, when the birds are flying, then they become a skein of geese.

The list was compiled several hundred years ago by sportsmen of Merrie England, whence comes our language. Therefore we must defer to this authentic wording, and personally I found the list of great interest.

Some terms are quite well known, such as the word pride when referring to a number of lions—a pride of lions. When we come to leopards—well, I'd gallop away in all directions, but if you want to know the right word for a plurality of leopards, it's a lepe of leopards. I'd still be tempted to run if we encountered a number of huge hairy apes, but it's nice to know that we're escaping from a shrewdness of apes.

Farmers may know company terms for domestic animals, but most of the names were strange to me—a harras of horses, a rag of colts, a pace of asses, and a baren of mules.

A drove of cattle has a familiar sound. So has a flock of sheep—but if the sheep number more than five or six hundred they are no longer a flock but a band of sheep.

In Red Deer

A Wacky - But Lucky Friday-the-13th For Hockey

DURING recent years attendance at hockey games in the champion-producing Central Alberta Hockey League has taken a steady tumble.

When Fred Hartley, the civic-minded managing director of Red Deer's CHCA-TV, told his production staff to go all out for the hockey clubs they took him at his word.

Operations manager Dave Neima picked Friday, November 13, as "the luckiest day I could think of," and with less than a week's notice started laying plans for a "telethon" in support of local hockey.

Dave promoted the production as The Big Show—and it was that. It began at noon on Friday and wound up at noon Saturday. Promoted by such notables as Rocket Richard, Fred Davis, King Whyte, and Gordie Tapp, the show featured a full 24 hours of live and filmed entertainment.

Local performers turned out in droves to assist the cause. And many out-of-towners also appeared.

The Stettler Keep Fit Class journeyed 120 miles to do an act at 2 a.m.

Barry Gordon, production manager at Calgary's CHCT-TV, turned up with a complete operations crew to relieve the weary Red Deer staffers. He also brought with him a complete western swingband, a teen-age rock 'n' roll band, and—in full western regalia—CHCT-TV's program director Ron Chase.

Radio station CFCN in Calgary sent along production manager Ned Corrigan and music librarian Lorraine Johnson—a professional entertainer in her own right.

From Edmonton radio station CHED came Jerry Barber, who played the piano until the last gun was fired. Edmonton television's representative was Julian Kiniski (brother of wrestler Gene), who is CFRN-TV's weatherman.

From Vancouver came nightclub and theatre entertainer Barney Potts, star of the former CBC-TV network program Barney's Gang.

"To put it mildly," say Red Deer television people, "the show was an overwhelming success. Over 100 season tickets to the Central Alberta League games were sold on the air during the 24-hour program.

One viewer bought $50 worth of season tickets just to see Channel Six's charming women's hostess, Marilyn Dorohoy, sing a torch song. Marilyn came through in fine style. So did Channel Six.

4 a.m.

BARNEY POTTS

star of CBC-TV's "Barney's Gang," flew in from Vancouver to help the cause of hockey in Red Deer. Here he does his telephone dialing act which wowed CHCA-TV viewers.

5 a.m.

CHCA-TV's pert women's hostess Marilyn Dorohoy listens intently as Jim Cain and Gary Steeves recite "beat" poetry to the accompaniment of bongo drums. Marilyn sang a torch song.

11 a.m.

A tired but game group of Channel Six staffers belt out a "good morning" to viewers who purchased over 100 season tickets for local hockey.

G.M. Presents

"The Oddball," a satirical comedy by Bernard Slade about our conforming society. Tom Harvey and Corinne Conley star as Adam and Cathy Parker, a happily-married couple with two children—Laurie, 15 (Roberta Maxwell), and Chris, 9 (Rex Hagon). Unlike most happily-married couples, the Parkers both work full time, Adam as a salesman, and Cathy as a TV commentator. The children are rapidly becoming wild and undisciplined under a succession of housekeepers, but this is remedied when Adam loses his job and decides to stay home and keep house. Others in the cast—Murray Senens of Winnipeg as Father, Jane Malleet as Mother, Ed McNamara as Marty Bentley, Larry Mann as a Reporter, Pam Hyatt as Alice, Eric Lane as Howie Banks, and Douglas Ney as Ralphie Blake. Melwyn Breen, producer. From Toronto.

One aspect of living at a bus stop is the naked feeling I get when I take down my curtains from my front bay windows, and stand poised on the steps with the wash leather in my hand and the bus rolls up full of people. Every eye is upon me and I know exactly how an actress feels on a big bare stage when the curtain rises on the first night of a new play. It's just the same when I'm digging and planting in the front garden. Every ten minutes thirty or more pairs of eyes bore into me and I feel that perhaps I ought to sing or dance and then board the bus and pass the hat around, although I expect they would only fill it with used tickets.—Gladys Birmingham, on BBC.

King Ganam Leaves Country Hoedown

Fiddler King Ganam, leader of the Sons of the West, has left the cast of Country Hoedown for medical reasons.

Mr. Ganam has been advised by his doctor that he requires an extended rest. Therefore, by mutual agreement, Mr. Ganam and the CBC have terminated their contract.

King Ganam was featured artist on the CBC radio series Alberta Ranch House for five years. He was the only featured western artist on the CBC's Startime in 1950 and was on the first Country Hoedown show when it began in 1956.

U.S. Fan Club For Joan Fairfax

Singer Joan Fairfax recently received word from American airmen in Cut Bank, Montana, that they had started a Joan Fairfax Fan Club. They also thanked Joan for "lessening the burden of their isolation."

The Joan Fairfax Show reaches the U.S. air force camp over CJLH-TV in Lethbridge.

Joan returned the airmen's compliment by sending them autographed photos of herself.

On the cover

CORINNE CONLEY

Actress Corinne Conley who co-stars in "The Oddball," this Sunday on G.M. Presents, and who expresses some opinions on her craft in the article on page 3, was born in Virginia, graduated from the University of Vermont, and toured the U.S. with the National Classic Theatre group before marrying and moving to Canada with her husband.

She entered radio as a commentator, disk jockey and actress in Montreal, where she also worked as a night club singer. While living in Montreal she played the only English-speaking part in Gratien Gelinas' film, Tit-Coq.

Miss Conley moved to Toronto with her husband in 1953, the year her son, Tony, was born. She was soon handling both singing and acting roles in radio and television productions from Toronto, and has since become one of the most popular actresses seen and heard regularly on CBC radio and TV dramas.

she has held for 10 years. Today, in an interview with Anna Cameron, she looks back over some of the highlights of her 27 years of public health nursing in Canada.

A VISIT FROM EMILY. Our Scottish friend, Emily, drops in again to bring us up to date on the gossip. Today she has been to town to do some Christmas shopping.

P.M. Party

Audience - participation program for women, with emcee Alan Millar, vocalists Donna Miller and Allan Blye, Rudy Toth and his orchestra, and announcer Rex Loring. Today's guest is Charlie Manna, American TV and nightclub entertainer. From Toronto.

Let's Look

The symbols and customs surrounding Christmas in Canada and elsewhere, now and in the past, will be spotlighted on this week's program. The Christmas of a generation or more ago is brought into focus, with its homemade decorations and gifts, its simple games and amusements, and its natural, spontaneous gaiety.

Science All Around Us

This week's program demonstrates how to make electric motors with nails, paper clips, and pieces of wire and wood.

Youth '60

This week - The Armed Forces as a Career, with cadets from the Royal Military College at Kingston, a naval commander, an army major, a member of the RCAF's Golden Hawks precision flying team, and apprentices from the three services as guests. Dave Broadfoot will do a comedy sketch. Host is Tommy Common, assisted by Penny Williams and Dennis Crothall. From Toronto.

CBWT-How About That!

Today Jim Mitchell presents the film, "History of the Helicopter," an account of the development of vertical flight. The film combines newsreel shots showing early achievements in this field with shots from valuable private collections. It includes the story of the development of the Sikorsky S-51, the Piasecki (or "Flying Banana"), the Hiller, and the jet-driven "Little Henry." Jim's special guest will discuss the various uses of the helicopter in Manitoba.

Music '60

This week-The Hit Parade, with Wally Koster, Joyce Hahn, Bill Walker, The Hit Parade Dancers,

Lloyd Bridges -Sea Hunt's Mike Nelson

Strangely enough, Lloyd Bridges, who glides through the water like an Olympic star in the TV series Sea Hunt, didn't include swimming in his well-rounded athletic program while studying at U.C.L.A. in his native California. He played baseball, basketball and football.

And not until he became president of the University Dramatic Society did Bridges realize he might have a future as an actor. He was planning to be a lawyer.

The Gino Silvi Singers, and Bert Niosi's orchestra. This week's guests are Peter Palmer, star of the Broadway musical Li'l Abner; Brian MacDonald, guest choreographer; and the singing Travellers. Palmer and Koster sing "If I Had My Druthers" from Li'l Abner. John Hahn sings "Wouldn't It Be Lovely" from My Fair Lady. The Travellers sing "They Call the Wind Maria," and Brian MacDonald joins the Hit Parade Dancers to present "Brian MacDonald Meets Peter Gunn." From Toronto.

The Town Above

Roger Lemelin's serial about a French-Canadian family living beyond its means in the "upper-town" district of Quebec City. From Montreal.

It was a young co-ed who was wearing Bridges' fraternity pin (and whom he later married) who encouraged Lloyd to join the hundreds of young actors pounding the pavements of Broadway. For several years he "did the rounds" of agents' offices, played bit parts in stage plays, worked with an off-Broadway group, acted in summer stock, and taught dramatics at an exclusive private school.

Lloyd was finally discovered by a Hollywood producer, and since then he has played important roles in such films as A Walk in the Sun, High Noon, Home of the Brave, and The Rainmaker. He has also played leading roles in almost all of the TV drama series in the U.S., and was nominated for an Emmy award for the "best single performance of the year" in 1957.

Sea Hunt, which is seen on most television stations in the prairies, is the first TV series based entirely on underwater adventure. It is produced through the co-operation of the Marineland Studios of the Pacific, the Scripps Institute of Oceanography, Commander Fane of the U.S. Navy Underwater Demolition Teams, and Submersible Operations Corp., a group of marine scientists and divers.

In the series, Lloyd Bridges plays the role of Mike Nelson, ex-Navy frogman who now works as a deep-sea investigator and diving instructor.

There is luck and also opportunity . . . if you accept the opportunity then luck can help, but some people don't accept the opportunity and consequently they're dogged by bad luck.—Harry Rosenthal on BBC.

Inside your head are about ten thousand million nerve cells. This is not a very large number as living cells go—in fact there are more red blood cells in your blood than that—but, unlike the cells in your blood or skin or muscles, the brain cells are in communication with one another. As for a cake, a pudding, and desserts to help housewives impress their families at Christmas. Today Ruth Fremes offers another holiday recipe—for fancy Christmas breads.

Mantovani

This week — "Mantovani Answers Your Requests." With singers John Hanson and Joan Regan, and the Mantovani Dancers.

CBWT—Mary Liz Show

Whether they are buying furniture or just wishing they could, all homemakers will be interested in Cynthia Coop's new series starting on the Mary Liz Show today. Mrs. Coop will show viewers what to look for in design, construction and finish in good furniture. Also on today's program, Gerdine Crawford offers an idea for a last-minute glamour gift that can be made quickly and easily, and Mrs. R. C. Baylis, who is producing this year's Nativity pageant at Holy Trinity Church, takes viewers behind the scenes of this annual Christmas presentation. Jean Mackay, producer.

Friendly Giant

This week Friendly reads "Dress Up and Let's Have a Party." and Rusty and Jerome do just that.

Maggie Muggins

Maggie, Fitzgerald and Reuben go Christmas shopping at a toy sale and Fitzgerald ends up in a cage with a lonely lion who doesn't want to let him go.

On Safari

This week — "Weaver Birds and Sacred Scarabs." Armand and Michaela Denis find camera subjects in the little weaver birds of Africa who weave their nests together to form a kind of apartment house. The second part of the film depicts the life and customs of the scarab or dung beetle. The ancient Egyptians used the scarab in their burial rites. The film ends with shots of native children being taught tribal dances. From Toronto.

Sky King

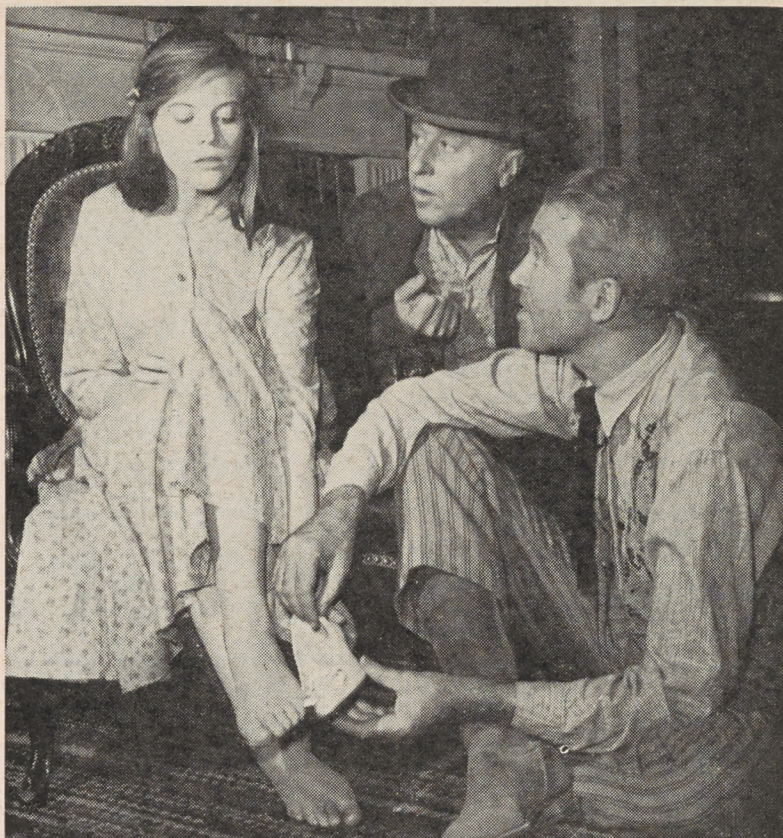

This week—"Bullet Bait." Sky and Penny aid a bridegroom who has been accused of being involved with a gang of hi-jackers. Sky has to perform some expert flying in his aircraft to rescue the young man.

Chevy Show

This week — "State Fair: U.S.A.," starring Roy Rogers and Dale Evans, with Jimmy Dean, Molly Bee and Fran Allison.

Startime

This week — "Cindy's Fella," the Cinderella story in the form of a Western, adapted by Jameson Brewer, directed by Gower Champion, and produced by Bill Frye. Starring Lois Smith, Jimmy Stewart, and George Gobel. (NBC).

Darwin Centenary

"The Future of the World's Population," a special program marking the 100th anniversary of the publication of Charles Darwin's "Origin of Species." The program was filmed in Chicago, prior to the Darwin Centennial taking place at the University of Chicago. It was produced by station WBBM-TV, a CBS affiliate, in co-operation with the CBC. Taking part are Sir Charles Darwin, physicist and grandson of the famous evolutionist;

Sir Julian Huxley, grandson of Thomas Huxley, 19th-century apologist for Darwin's work; Adlai Stevenson, Democratic candidate for the U.S. presidency in 1952 and 1956; Harlow Shapley, professor emeritus of astronomy at Harvard University; and Sol Tax, professor of anthropology at the University of Chicago. Chairman is Irving Kupcinet of the Chicago Sun-Times.

No self-respecting English seaside resort dares to be without a pier. Piers are survivors from the late Victorian and Edwardian epoch. I haven't heard of anyone building one for years. So all our seaside piers are delicious pieces of fretted iron-work dotted with kiosks and with the inevitable Pavilion, domed and spiry with iron trellis-work at the seaward end.—Wynford Vaughan Thomas on BBC.

P.M. Party

Audience - participation program for women, with emcee Alan Millar, vocalists Donna Miller and Allan Blye, Rudy Toth and his orchestra, and announcer Rex Loring. Today's guest is Charles Bowen, general manager of the Toronto Better Business Bureau, who will tell Alan Millar about fraudulent pre-Christmas practices. From Toronto.

Our Miss Brooks

This week - "Parlour Game." Mr. Conklin asks Connie Brooks to help dissuade his daughter from her crush on Walter Denton. Connie finds herself being taken to task by the daughter for her own failure in trying to interest Mr. Boynton.

Friendly Giant

Today Friendly reads the story of Flip, a colt who is afraid of cows. Rusty and Jerome play a tune on cowbells.

CBWT-Busy Fingers

This week Betty Nickerson's guests are three children from the Saturday morning art classes at Provencher School, St. Boniface, who will demonstrate how to make Christmas cards from construction paper, tempera paints, etc. Jean Mackay, producer.

Art in Action

This week CBWT carries the fourth program in the second series—"Perspective Continued," in which Prof. George Swinton talks about one-point-two-point and three-point perspective and our contemporary post-perspective period in art. Other stations carry the third program in the second series—a study of the applications, advantages and limitations of perspective. Frank Rasler, producer. From Winnipeg.

R.C.M.P.

This week—"The Safeman Cometh," by George Salverson. Constable Mitchell (Don Francks) does some long-range guessing in this story of the "gorilla-man" who comes to Shamat-tawa and runs afoul of an aroused citizenry. With Giles Pelletier as Cpl. Gagnier, John Perkins as Const. Frank Scott, Leo Leyden as Bert Miller, Chris Wiggins as Kurt Hammel, Sylvia Proulx as June, and Kevin Retty as Joe Trapp.

Live a Borrowed Life

Charles Templeton is moderator as a panel consisting of Anna Cameron, Bill Walker, Elwy Yost and a guest attempt to identify the famous person portrayed by the guest expert. From Toronto.

Perry Como

Perry's guests this week are actor Maurice Evans, singer Jane Morgan and the Weire Brothers, a comedy trio.

The Unforeseen

"The Metronome," by August Derleth. A metronome is a symbol of vengeance from beyond the grave in this eerie study in suspense and supernatural terror in which a young boy's resentment at the woman his father has married leads to tragedy. Eric Till, producer. From Toronto.

Explorations

This week—the first of four "Music to See" programs by Helmut Blume, dealing with the music of the Church. Tonight — the Gregorian and polyphonic periods. Program originates from the chapel of Le Grand Seminaire of the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of Montreal. Music will be performed by the Pius X Choir (25 men) and the Choir of L'Ecole Meilleur (25 boys). See story this page for more details on tonight's program on the series.

CBWT-Stu Davis Show

Western music with Canada's cowboy troubadour Stu Davis, vocalist Bernie Garrison, and the Tumbleweed Trio. From Winnipeg.

Music to See

Another "Explorations" series by Helmut Blume on the music of the church

Music of the church, developing through the sweep of the centuries from ancient plainsong to liturgical compositions by such contemporary composers as Stravinsky and Villa Lobos, will be illustrated by Helmut Blume in a new series of four Explorations TV programs starting this week.

The project will be the second of Helmut Blume's Music to See series to be presented on Explorations. The first series of eight programs, produced in 1957, won the Ohio Award.

The history of western art music was the history of church music up to 1600, and it is only in the past 200 years or so that the main body of musical activity ceased to draw its inspiration chiefly from traditional Catholic and Protestant sources. But a good deal happened in music in the pre-secular period, as Blume hopes to show.

Moving rapidly through the centuries he will trace the main lines of development, the emergence of polyphony, the struggle between the senses and the spirit, the incursions of secularism, the ascendancy of Tudor England (when a Duke of Milan sent to England for singers!), the strangely liberal attitude of Martin Luther, the grandeur of Bach, and the unorthodoxy of some contemporary composers.

The first program, on December 16, will come from the beautiful chapel of le Grand Seminaire of the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of Montreal, where Blume will talk about Gregorian chant and the development of polyphony. Musical illustration will be provided by the Pius X Choir of 25 men's voices, and the 25-voice boys' choir of l'Ecole Meilleur. Directed by Father Clement Morin, Dean of the Faculty of Music of the University of Montreal, the choirs will sing, unaccompanied, excerpts from can lead to arguments and problems. In this film, made especially for Open House, viewers will meet a young Egyptian girl, well educated, holding a responsible job, but whose opinions on what a young girl can do are often quite different from those of her parents — particularly her mother. The film was made in Cairo.

CHRISTMAS CARD LISTS. What time and thought we give to the business of Christmas cards! Did they send us a card last year? Shall we send the Robinsons a religious card? Let's take the Smiths off our list; they never send us a card. And so on. We all have our own systems. Today Araby Lockhart will tell us about hers — with her list in one hand, a pencil in the other (and her tongue in her cheek).

BOOKSHELF. Book review by Kildare Dobbs.

CBWT—Mary Liz Show

Today Mrs. A. R. Gauer prepares another inexpensive meat dish designed to be a refreshing change from the usual holiday menus. Miss Frances Mackay reports on the "buy of the week;" Evelyn Franklin of the University of Manitoba concludes her series on easy-to-make Christmas decorations; and Mrs. Ray Jackson of the Princess Elizabeth Hospital Guild describes plans for tonight's party for the hospital patients. Jean Mackay, producer.

The Millionaire

This week — "Alicia Osante," starring Rita Moreno. A South American girl competes in a beauty contest and ends up with a U.S. sailor as a prize.

See For Yourself

Today Foster and Ross make some Christmas toys.

This Living World

This week — "Birds of Prey." Film taken in a Louisiana swamp depicts birds which act as nature's policemen to see that small animals do not become too numerous.

Roy Rogers

This week — "Dead Man's Hills." Dale Evans is in peril as she cares for a wounded sheriff in a ghost town mine with a gang of desperate crooks nearby.

CBWT—Scan

CBC Information Services feature. This week Bob McGaul, supervisor of light entertainment for CBC-TV, talks about his work and about future shows.

The Deputy

This week—"Man of Peace." Simon Fry (Henry Fonda) contacts the cavalry and arranges a rendezvous in Silver City after a band of renegade Apaches have stolen a shipment of rifles.

Talent Caravan

This week—a semi-final from Halifax, featuring all the winners of the previous Maritime programs. The winner of tonight's program will compete in the finals next spring in Toronto.

Man From Blackhawk

This week — "Death is the Best Policy." A woman and her five sons set out to gain vengeance against the holder of a $10,000 Blackhawk life insurance policy whom they claim killed a sixth son.

of lines, larger screens will enable TV to treat larger themes.

Miss Conley disagrees with all three. Keyhole dramas have succeeded not because of any technical factors but because the audience, casually watching in the living room, demands easily identifiable people in familiar situations. The stage audience which has paid and dressed up to see a play will make more effort of imagination than the casual viewer.

Can an actor be seen too much on TV?

"Actors needn't worry about their face being over-exposed," said Cohen. "It's over-exposure of their techniques that count. One style would last an actor on stage all his life. But TV burns up techniques as it burns up everything else."

Says Miss Conley: "It's much easier to disguise your own personality on stage than it is on TV. The close-up sees to that. And the more apparent your personality, the more you limit yourself to one type. That's why there is so much type-casting on TV."

Television drama has not bred a generation of stars—names known to every household—in the way films do, or in the way that TV comedy or musicals do. Neither Cohen nor Miss Conley discussed this question, but perhaps their previous comments provide a clue: the essence of a star is his public personality; the essence of a good

TV actor—and one who wants to work in enough dramas to earn a living—is his ability to disguise his personality. An actor cannot have it both ways.—Brian Stewart.

MacKenzie King Profile on CBC-TV

CBC-TV's Close-Up on March 10 and 17 will be devoted to an examination of the life and times of a controversial Canadian political figure—wartime Prime Minister MacKenzie King, a man hated by some and loved and revered by others.

Douglas Leiterman, who is preparing the two-part study, will interview former colleagues, acquaintances, friends and contemporaries, including spiritualists and mediums.

Huxley, T. S. Eliot Plays on "Startime"

Two plays by English authors—Aldous Huxley's The Gioconda Smile, and T. S. Eliot's The Cocktail Party—are now in rehearsal in Toronto for presentation on the CBC-NBC Startime series early in the new year.

English actress Pamela Brown will play the role of Janet Spence, the spinster who poisons the wife of a neighbour so he will be free to marry her. Miss Brown is currently co-starring on Broadway with Maurice Evans in Bernard Shaw's comedy, Heartbreak House. The 60-minute adaptation of Huxley's story has been made by Rita Greer Allen. (Nathan Cohen's radio adaptation of the same story was heard Nov. 22 on CBC Stage.)

Murray Matheson will play the leading role of the unidentified guest in Eliot's The Cocktail Party, which has been adapted for television by Desmond Scott. Others in the cast are William Hutt, Helene Hughes, Mary Savidge, Gillie Fenwick, Jane Mallett, and Jeremy Wilkin. The Cocktail Party tells of four people who are driven from the aimless chatter of a cocktail party to discover a satisfying pattern for their lives.

PROGRAM NOTES

DECEMBER 19

See also page 4 of next week's issue for possible changes in these notes and additional program information.

CBWT—Music Hall

Musical variety show with hostess Michelle Tisseyre. This week's guests are soprano Vivian Della Chiesa, and the Michel Conte Dancers. Original music by Serge Garant conducted by Art Morrow. (CBC Montreal film).

RCAF Wings Parade

Film of last night's RCAF Wings Parade held at the RCAF Winnipeg base. The program marks both the 35th anniversary of the RCAF and the 50th anniversary of powered flight in Canada. Approximately 25 pilots from the RCAF jet stations at Gimli and Portage la Prairie and 25 observers from the Winnipeg station will receive their wings. The only pilots and observers in the RCAF to receive wings this year, they have just completed a nine-month course. Guest of honour will be Air Marshal C. Roy Slemmon, past chief of air staff in Canada, and now deputy commander of the North American Air Defense Command at Colorado Springs, Colo. Air Marshal Slemmon is the only serving member of the six pilots who received their wings in the first Wings Parade 35 years ago. Also in attendance will be Air Marshal Hugh Campbell, chief of air staff in Canada; and either defence minister Pearkes or his associate minister, Pierre Sevigny. Commentary by Ron Hunka; production by George Kent.

P.M. Party

Audience - participation program for women. Today the program's regulars (emcee Alan Millar, vocalists Donna Miller and Allan Blye, Rudy Toth, and announcer Rex Loring) will present a parody on "The Night Before Christmas." Rudy plays "The Dream of Olwyn," and Allan Blye sings "Will You Still Be Mine?" From Toronto.

Sportstime

This week Doug Maxwell visits a children's skating rink and shows a German film about winter sports.

Tidewater Tramp

The adventures of a boy and a girl on a tramp steamer off the B.C. coast. (CBC Vancouver film).

CBWT—Hobby Corner

Glynn Morris' guest this week is Geoffrey Spurr, who will demonstrate his skill in woodworking and electronics. Frank Rasler, producer.

The Four Just Men

This week—"The Beatniques." Tom Collier (Dan Dailey) gets involved in a blackmailer's plot while he is covering a film festival at the French Riviera.

Flying Doctor

This week—"Time Bomb." Dr. Greg Graham and his nurse find themselves in danger when they investigate smoke coming from an abandoned farm and find two escaped convicts hiding there.

Radio Fans

• I want to thank you for last week's performance of Britten's Les Illuminations, with soprano Mary Simmons, directed by Dr. Boyd Neel on CBC Wednesday Night. Radio means a lot to me, and this winter's fare is so good.—Mrs. R. J. S., Saskatoon.

• Being from the Union of South Africa where I have been used to similar programs I really enjoy tuning in to the CBC.—H. W. van der Merwe, Esterhazy, Sask.

Likes Times "As Is"

• I have recently read several letters in the Mail Bag suggesting changes in the lay-out. May I say that our family finds it pretty good as it now stands, and our 2½-year-old knows that TV is not switched on without consulting the "Times."—Mrs. M. W. P., Winnipeg.

Children's Programs

• I am writing to commend two of your programs—Friendly Giant on sheets available from "Speaking French," CBC, Box 6000, Montreal).

Mr. Fix-It

This week Peter Whittall, assisted by Rex Loring, talks about decorative Christmas lighting for houses. From Toronto.

CBWT—Movies With Manings

"Manhattan Melodrama," with Clark Gable, William Powell and Myrna Loy; a gangster story revolving around a friendship between the gangster and the D.A. (MGM, 1934).

N.H.L. Hockey

New York Rangers vs. Montreal Canadiens. Play-by-play commentary is by Danny Gallivan.

Juliette

For the first time since her show became a Saturday night institution on Canadian television, Juliette will welcome a live audience to her program. For this Christmas show she has sent out engraved invitations to television, and the Saturday morning children's program on radio. In my mind there is nothing that could be done to improve either of these programs. They reveal an excellent understanding of young children and use a remarkable method of teaching young children appreciation of books. I hope that these programs will continue indefinitely. Their value far outweighs anything else presented on TV for children.—Mrs. B. B. S., Winnipeg.

Points West

• Kerry Wood's little talk on old but new-to-us names for groups of birds and animals has just come in over CBC. Had I known this was coming I would have been ready with pencil and paper. Would it be possible to let me know where I might find this most quaint and unique bit of information? Many thanks from a member of the Vancouver Natural History Society.—A. M. M., Vancouver.

• Points West is a fascinating program! I have just listened enchanted to Kerry Wood's description of the plural names of animals and birds. As I try to give my children an interest in descriptive words I am most anxious to tell them about this program of yours and wonder if it would be possible to ask for the list.—Mrs. C. F. C., Vancouver.

Because of many similar requests we are printing Mr. Wood's talk in this issue of CBC Times. See page 4.

people requesting their presence—and a new or used toy, unwrapped. Toronto Studio 4 seats about 300 people, and a full house will net 300 toys for distribution by the Children's Aid Societies of Toronto. "Sometime during the show, we'll display the toys on camera," says producer Bob Jarvis. "Juliette and her company—The Romeos, Bobby Gimby, and the Bill Isbister orchestra—will do special Christmas numbers, and we'll dispense with the sets so they can perform directly to the live audience."

It is nonsense to think that education is unnecessary to a married woman; after all, quite a lot of married men are educated. If she is not to live in perpetual intellectual awe of her husband, a wife must be able to meet him on his own level of common understanding; otherwise a whole world of comprehension will never be grasped.—Peter Durlacher on BBC.

Comics on the Couch

RAOUL ENGEL settles some burning questions about the psychological make-up of some favourites of the funnies

TO SAY that Thursday night's edition of Soundings on CBC radio is off-beat is putting it mildly. Montreal free-lance broadcaster Raoul Engel will escort Blondie, Pogo, Mary Worth, Orphan Annie, Dick Tracy and countless other comic strip heroes and heroines to the psychiatrist's couch, to be analyzed by a group of learned psycho-sociological pundits — amateur and professional, youthful and adult, sacred and profane.

Six main categories of comic strips will be dissected: political and social criticism, as in Lil Abner, Pogo, etc.; the American myth, as in Mary Worth, Orphan Annie, Blondie and Jiggs (and this category sub-divides into the homely small town and middle-class morality); the guts and violence, as in Dick Tracy and others; the jingoistic-cum-adventure as in Terry and Steve Canyon; the sneaking-in-the-educational, as in Rex Morgan, M.D., and Mark Trail; and the mad or the zany, which is sometimes hilariously nutty, sometimes embarrassingly sick.

Some burning questions will be settled, says producer Herbert Steinhouse. Does Mary Worth suffer the guilt feelings of a transferred father-fixation? Does Blondie reflect reality, the American dream or just "momism"? Is Orphan Annie puerile, or dangerous? Does Terry follow or formulate American foreign policy? How effectively does Pogo score in social satire? Is Dick Tracy a homicidal sadist, and is Steve Canyon emotionally mal-adjusted? Should the xenophobic Daddy Warbucks be investigated by the United Nations Human Rights Commission?

Apart from such psycho-social analysis, the program will also ask whether the comic strips are credible, whether they are artistically drawn and whether they can be treated as a subsection of literature.

A few general questions will be posed: Are today's strips amusing? What myths do they perpetuate? Are some of them retrograde and vicious? Or are they all simply and truly a pure waste of time?

MUSIC ON RADIO

by BOYD NEEL

Pal Kadosa is a name we do not often hear of today and yet this Hungarian pianist-teacher and composer is quite a considerable figure in the music of our time. I see that his Quintet for wind instruments, opus 49A, is to be performed on Sunday morning by the CBC Woodwind Ensemble. Kadosa studied his composition with Kodaly and has also appeared on the concert platform as a pianist, a role in which he achieved much distinction. For many years he was on the staff of the Fodor School in Budapest, but became one of the many victims of politics and was forced to resign in 1943. Since the end of the war he has been piano-forte professor at the Academy of Music in Budapest.

Kadosa can be compared to Bartok in the way he uses Hungarian folk music in his compositions. Although he never took part in the collecting of folk tunes, he has been decisively influenced by this music, especially the Magyar folk music. Hindemith has also been an important influence on him, but his style remains individual in the last resort. The Quintet for wind instruments dates from 1953.

On Sunday evening Thomas Rolston of Edmonton is going to play the Violin Concerto of Jean Coulthard, one of the best known of contemporary Canadian composers. She hails from Vancouver where she is on the music staff of the University of British Columbia. Her studies were at the Royal Conservatory of Toronto and also at the Royal College in London. She has won many prizes in the International field, one of the most notable being the Olympic award in 1948 for her oboe sonata. She is also a pianist of distinction and has given many recitals and appeared as

TRANS-CANADA MATINEE

Passing of the Big M. The way of a man with a maid may be of great interest to a poet, but the way of a boy with his first car is of more interest to a mother. Vinia Hoogstraten, Winnipeg housewife, writer and broadcaster, remembers her son's first car, The Big M, and the untimely end to which it came.

Cooking School of the Air. The Christmas season, with its school vacation, is a season of parties for children, teenagers, and adults. In today's cooking school lesson, Eustella Langdon turns her attention to the party plans of young people. After a day's skating or skiing, what could be more appetizing and filling than a steaming crock of baked beans?—or a casserole of chick peas and weiners? Party menus that provide young people with nourishment as well as eye-appeal are included in Mrs. Langdon's talk.

Designing Man. Oleg Cassini is sometimes thought of as the Salvatore Dali of the fashion industry because of his fabulous ideas for special occasion gowns and the names he gives them. Fashion reporters who are veterans of the New York shows always look forward to Mr. Cassini's designs and his commentary on them—a refreshing, tongue-in-cheek contrast to the usual slick presentations. Mr. Cassini was once married to film actress Gene Tierney. On today's program he talks with the CBC's morning commentator in Toronto, Edna May.

Daily features . . . News commentary by Robert Duffy, recorded music presented by Ruby Mercer, and another episode in Marian Waldman's serial, "The Dancers," produced in Winnipeg by Gus Kristjanson.

Tommy Hunter Show From the Arctic

A CBC troupe heads 440 miles inside the Arctic circle to Resolute Bay, N.W.T., via Churchill, Manitoba, to entertain the armed forces this week.

The party consists of Tommy Hunter, the Rhythm Pals, guitarist Al Harris, fiddler Wally Traugott, announcer Bill Bessey, comedian Gordie Tapp, Juliette, Denyse Ange and Sheila Billings. Producer Ken Dalziel will tape the programs which will be flown out and played on The Tommy Hunter Show on December 15, 16 and 17.

The audience at Resolute will number 85 RCAF and other personnel who man this northern outpost. CBC is sending along a film of this year's Grey Cup game for the personnel. They have seen no live entertainment for seven months.

The program listeners will hear on CBC radio will be recorded at a children's party at an Eskimo village at Resolute. There will be two shows at Churchill to accommodate the much larger armed forces audience there.

Marilyn Phillips

commentator on CBW*

Marilyn Phillips, CBW's new morning commentator grew up in

Marilyn Phillips

Empress, Alta., was trained as a concert pianist, has studied drama and speech, and worked at various times as a music teacher, actress (stage, radio and TV) fashion model, and fashion commentator.

Marilyn, who is 28, has been married for seven years. She takes a keen interest in community activities (she is active in CGIT, sorority, church, and Red Cross work), likes to travel, lists history as her favourite reading, and prefers magazines on current affairs and fashions to other types.

Starting December 7, Marilyn will report on things of interest to women Mondays to Fridays at 9:45 a.m. on CBW.

The Asiatic golden plover and some of the other waders breeding in Arctic Siberia get as far south as Australia and New Zealand. Waders are tremendous wanderers. We caught and ringed some sanderlings on a sandy bay on Holy Island, off the Northumberland coast, one September morning, and exactly one month afterward one of them was recovered on the farthest corner of the Black Sea. To get there in that time its lowest possible average speed must have been 70 miles a day.—

Dr. Eric Ennion, on the BBC.

Democracy means in English what it meant in the Greek from which it is translated, "the rule of the people." The difficulty lies in giving a true and clear account of what "the rule of the people" entails. It seems to me that the biggest mistake made in this connection is to assume that "the rule of the people" means "the rule of the majority." The expression "the people" does not mean "some people" or "most people," but the "people as a whole," and this necessarily includes the minority as well as the majority. Hence if the minority has no share in ruling, a system cannot properly be considered a democratic one.—Maurice Cranston, on BBC.

TRANS-CANADA MATINEE

The Children's Bureau. Mrs. Katharine Oettinger is head of the children's bureau of the United States department of health, education and welfare. Her work and that of the bureau she heads are discussed by Eileen Summers, a freelance broadcaster who lives in Switzerland. Her talk was recorded when she was living in Washington.

The Church Was For Every Day. Laura Jamieson, former juvenile court judge, alderman, and MLA, has been recalling her childhood in Ontario in the 1890's. On earlier Matinee talks she has discussed books, higher education, and community picnics. Today she recalls the role that the church played in the social, as well as the spiritual, life of the villagers.

Folklorists will be interested in some of the activities that took place among the young people, particularly in what Mrs. Jamieson calls "the Methodist substitute for folk dancing."

Christmas is for Children. Today Matinee's hostess, Betty Tomlinson talks with some of her youthful friends about what they're giving each other and the adults in their families.

Daily features . . . News commentary by Robert Duffy of Ottawa, recorded music presented by Ruby Mercer, and another episode in Marian Waldman's serial, "The Dancers," produced in Winnipeg by Gus Kristjanson.
W-3:33 pm K-2:33 pm X-2:33 pm

PRAIRIE TALK

This week — How "U" Are You?— a light-hearted study of class distinction in Canada, by A. D. Henry of Edmonton. "As the superficial differences between upper and lower classes become fewer, some people are going to more and more elaborate lengths to demonstrate that the situation is not as it appears to be," says Mr. Henry. "Although the workman and the upper income man may look alike as they pass each other in their motor boats on the lake, there are differences in their habits and attitudes which indicate their social status without the need of seeing their homes or their income tax returns." It is these differences which Mr. Henry examines in tonight's talk.

TRANS-CANADA MATINEE

There's No Father Christmas. Mona Saunders is an Australian freelance broadcaster who has been caravanning around Europe with her husband and her children. They are now living in England. One Christmas they were in southern Italy and it was there that they heard the story of "La Befana," the Italian version of Santa Claus, which she tells today.

TV and the Child. Television is sometimes used, by parents and other adults, as a scapegoat for behaviour problems among children. In her last talk about TV and children, Thelma McCormack, a Toronto mother and sociologist, examines this accusation and analyses the contribution that television makes to behaviour problems. Mrs. McCormack also examines the short-range and long-range effects of television viewing and discusses the beneficial effects TV can have.

Daily features . . . News commentary by Mattie Rotenberg of Toronto, recorded music presented by Richard Johnson, and another episode in Marian Waldman's serial, "The Dancers," produced in Winnipeg by Gus Kristjanson.

soloist with the Vancouver Symphony. The greater part of her musical output consists of songs and chamber music, and the violin concerto is her first essay in this form. It was commissioned by the Canada Council.

At the same concert we can hear the King Lear Overture of Berlioz. Berlioz was one of the most ardent Shakespeareans who ever lived and King Lear was one of his favourite plays. The Overture can be considered as a kind of commentary on the tragedy which follows it and there is nothing in the nature of "illustration." It is the atmosphere created which is all-important. We can, I suppose, if we wish to carry the process to extremes, find elements in the Overture which can be related to various episodes of the play and it is often said that the startling pizzicato passage towards the end of the Overture may have been the way in which Berlioz thought of the snapping of the old King's mental control, but this belongs chiefly to the realm of the program-note writer's fantasy. A vivid imagination can read all sorts of "meanings" into the simplest piece of music—meanings which it is quite certain the composer himself never dreamt of.

The only clue that Berlioz has given us as regards this Overture is its title, and the dissection of each bar as representing something in the play is a tedious and stupid process which we find all too often in writings on music. The only thing music can do better than anything else is create an atmosphere or emotion which can be correlated to a dramatic story. Apart from the overall emotion, there remains only literal representation, and this music can also do, as witness for instance, the bird calls in is one of the CBC stars who flew as far north as Resolute Bay, N.W.T., to entertain members of the armed services. Beethoven's Pastoral Symphony, or the braying of the donkey in Mendelssohn's Midsummer Night's Dream Overture. Music cannot "describe" any material objects and this can be easily proved by playing any simple piece with a title to a group of people and then asking each one what the title is. You will get an astonishing variety of replies and certainly nobody will guess the correct title, which proves at once that, apart from literal representation, music can only be music.

But you never have a flock of goats; plurality of that species is a tribe of goats.

Swine terms are most intriguing. For example, a number of boars is a singular of boars. That's right; a singular of boars means a large batch of gentlemen hogs. If you encounter a number of wild pigs, you've met a sownder of them. A

Cows are most responsive to kindness and kind words, and they show that response by giving more milk to those who trouble to understand and treat them well. I had a letter once from a lady owner who claimed to have one cow that would actually shed a tear if spoken to harshly. I know enough about cows to believe that implicitly.—George Villiers in a BBC Home Service program.

mixed company of domestic porkers is a drift of swine.

Let's suppose the farmer keeps a number of cats around the barn; would you call them a scat of cats as I used to do? Well, we're wrong, because the correct word is a clowder of cats. When there are more than one kitten they become a kendel of kittens. A number of hounddogs should be called a mute of hounds. If your canine friends are of mixed breeds—please don't sue me, but the proper term for them is a cowardice of curs.

Let's leave the farm yard and go into the wilds, where we may find a herd of deer. Herd is the correct plural name when applied to bucks, stags, and all male varieties of deer. But if we see female deer, does or hinds, then the word is a bevy of does. Suppose we go around the bend and meet a batch of bears; apparently the approved term is a sloth of bears. Surprisingly, a group of wolves is not a pack, but a route of wolves. When you sight rabbits, you've seen a nest of them, believe it or not.

Names for company groups of birds are even more interesting. Most of us are used to saying flock when referring to numbers of ducks, geese, swans—in fact, almost any variety of bird. To be strictly accurate we should refer to a sord of mallards, a spring of teal, a plump of waterfowl, and a badelynge of ducks. If swans, cranes or curlews fly over, we've seen a herd of these birds.

I like the term for a number of plover. Every part of the prairie provinces has spring and autumn visitations of large numbers of migrating plover. Well, the proper name for more than two plover is a congregation of plover. If you've ever seen golden plover on a ploughed field, all facing the same way, you'll appreciate that word.

Perhaps the strangest word on this old list is the group term for that abundant pest known as the European Starling. During the last fifteen years starlings have spread all over western Canada, where they oust valuable purple martins, tree swallows, and bluebirds from bird-boxes set up in our gardens.

Starlings are exceedingly messy around public buildings, they pilfer swathed grain, puncture ripe cherries, and hi-jack tree cavities drilled by beneficial woodpeckers. But they're here, for worse rather than better, and the company name for such birds is a murmuration of starlings. A murmuration—can you tap that. Starlings squawk, wheeze, cackle, and produce a din of cacophonous noise when in large numbers. But if we want to be absolutely correct about them, we must refer to them as a murmuration of starlings. Some murmur!

Oh, well, perhaps we should allow ourselves a little liberty in the use of such terms. For example, I greatly prefer that gaggle word to skein when talking about wild geese flying over in a sightly group. Son Greg still calls them a flock, but from now on I'm a gaggle man, myself.

At present we have a life span which, on the average, doesn't exceed about seventy years. It is quite possible that by suitable use of drugs, or by selection, using deliberately controlled mutation, the span of life could be doubled. Indeed, there are many reasons for thinking that it may be possible to extend the span of life by much more than this.—James Danielli, professor of Zoology at King's College, London on BBC.
